كَانَ أَغْلَبُ العَهْدِ الرُّسْتُمِي عَهْدَ طُمَأْنِينَةٍ فِي بِلادِ الْمَغْرِبِ، سَمَحَتْ لِلنَّاسِ بِأَنْ يَلْتَفِتُوا إِلَى تَحْسِينِ حَيَاتِهِمْ وَتَوْفِيرِ الخَيْرَاتِ وَتَنْوِيعِ المَنْتُوجَاتِ ، وَارْسَالِ مَا زَادَ إِلَى البِلادِ البَعِيدَةِ لِمُقَايَضَتِهَا بِمَا يَفْتَقِرُونَ إِلَيْهِ، فَعَمَّ المِنْطَقَةَ رَخَاءٌ تُحْسَدُ عَلَيْهِ.

كَيْفَ كَانَتْ الْأَحْوَالُ الاقْتِصَادِيَّةُ فِي بِلادِ المَغْرِبِ ؟

The majority of the Rustamid era was a period of tranquility in the Maghreb, allowing people to focus on improving their lives, increasing wealth, diversifying products, and sending surplus goods to distant lands to exchange for what they lacked. This led to widespread prosperity in the region, envied by others.
How were the economic conditions in the Maghreb?

سَاعَدَ الاسْتِقْرَارُ الَّذِي مَرَّ بِهِ المَغْرِبُ فِي العَهْدِ الرُّسْتُمِي عَلَى ازْدِهَارِ الإِقْتِصَادِ، فَقَدْ تَشَجَّعَ النَّاسُ لِلقِيَامِ بِخِدْمَةِ الْأَرْضِ ، وَتَنْوِيعِ المُنْتَجَاتِ، وَفَتَحُوا الوَرْشَاتِ وَعَدَّدُوا الحِرَفَ لِتَلْبِيَةِ حَاجَاتِ الرِّيفِ وَالبَادِيَةِ، وَتَوَسَّعَت الدَّكَاكِينُ لِلسِّلَعِ المُحَمَّلَةِ مَعَ القَوَافِلِ التِّجَارِيَّةِ ، كَمَا امْتَدَّتْ المَسَالِكُ لِلرَّبْطِ بَيْنَ جِهَاتِ المَغْرِبِ، فَكَانَتْ المَنْطِقَةُ فِي خَيْرٍ وَفِيرٍ

A covenant of security and stability

The stability experienced by the Maghreb during the Rustamid era contributed to economic prosperity. People were encouraged to cultivate the land, diversify their products, establish workshops, and expand trades to meet the needs of both rural and urban areas. Shops flourished with goods brought by trade caravans, and trade routes extended to connect different regions of the Maghreb. As a result, the region enjoyed abundant prosperity.

شَهِدَ شَمَالُ المَغْرِبِ الأَوْسَطِ تَقَدُّمًا زِرَاعِيًا كَبِيرًا بَيْنَ مَتِيجَةَ وَحَوْضِ الشَّلَفِ، وَكَانَ رِيفُ تَاهَرْتَ كَثِيرَ المِيَاهِ وَاسِعَ البَسَاتِينِ، إِذْ كَانَتْ تُزْرَعُ الخَيْرَاتُ مِنَ الحُبُوبِ وَالكِتَّانِ وَالسِّمْسِمِ، وَقَدْ سُمِّيَ أَحَدُ أَبْوَابِ المَدِينَةِ بَابُ المَطَاحِنِ؛ كَمَا نُصِبَتْ عَلَى نَهْرِ خَرَّار فِي تَنَسَ وَوَادِي مَيْنَةَ الأَرْحَاءُ، وَقَدْ امْتَدَّتْ بَيْنَهَا وَبَيْنَ وَهْرَانَ الفَوَاكِهُ وَالْمَزْرُوعَاتُ المُتَنَوِّعَةُ مِنَ الكِتَّانِ وَالسَّفَرْجَلِ وَالتِّينِ وَالزَّيْتُونِ وَغَيْرِهِ، فَكَانَتْ سُفُنُ الْأَنْدَلُسِ تُسَوِّقُ مِنْ مَرَافِئِ الْمَغْرِبِ الْأَوْسَطِ. كَمَا كَانَتْ وَاحَاتُ النَّخِيلِ بَيْنَ دَرْجِينَ وَسُوفَ وَأَرِيغَ وَسَدْرَاتَه كَثِيرَةُ الغِلَالِ، وَتَوَسَّعَ عُمْرَانُهَا أَكْثَرَ فِي العَهْدِ الرُّسْتُمِي، إِذْ ازْدَهَرَتْ أَكْثَرُ الوَاحَاتِ عَلَى الطَّرِيقِ بَيْنَ تَاهَرْتَ وَنَفُوسَة.

Agricultural activity

The central northern region of the Maghreb witnessed significant agricultural progress between the Mitidja plain and the Chelif basin. The countryside around Tahert was rich in water and filled s gates was 'with vast orchards, where grains, flax, and sesame were cultivated. One of the city even named "The Mill Gate," and water mills were established along the Kharrar River in Ténès .and the Mina River

Between this area and Oran, diverse crops flourished, including flax, quince, figs, olives, and more. Andalusian ships traded goods from the ports of the central Maghreb. Additionally, the palm oases between Dargine, Souf, Arigh, and Sedrata were abundant in produce, with their urban development expanding further during the Rustamid era. Many of the oases along the .route between Tahert and Nafusa prospered, contributing to the region's economic growth

نَشَاطُ تَرْبِيَةِ الْأَنْعَامِ

شَدَّ أَنْظَارَ الجُغْرَافِينِ تِلْكَ الْأَعْدَادُ الكَثِيرَةُ مِنْ قُطْعَانِ المَاشِيَةِ وَالْأَبْقَارِ حَوْلَ تَاهَرْتَ، وَكَثْرَةُ السَّمْنِ وَالعَسَلِ، فَقَد اهْتَمَّت الرَعِيَّةُ كَثِيرًا بِتَرْبِيَةِ الأَنْعَامِ وَالخُيُولِ، وَتَرْبِيَةِ النَّحْلِ وَالاسْتِفَادَةِ مِنْ مُشْتَقَّاتِهَا، حَتَّى رَخُصَ ثَمَنُهَا لِوَفْرَتِهَا، وَكَانَ ذَلِكَ هُوَ الحَالُ فِي عُمُومِ بِلادِ المَغْرِبِ. وَكَانَ الرَّعْيِ هُوَ نَشَاطُ بَعْضِ القَبَائِلِ البَدَوِيَّةِ الَّتِي تَسِيرُ وَرَاءَ قُطْعَانِهَا شَمَالاً فِي الصَّيْفِ وَجَنُوبًا فِي الشَّتَاءِ.

Livestock raising activity

The abundance of livestock and cattle around Tahert, along with the plentiful supply of butter and honey, captured the attention of geographers. The people devoted significant effort to raising livestock, horses, and bees, benefiting from their products to such an extent that prices became low due to the surplus. This prosperity was widespread throughout the Maghreb. Herding was a primary activity for some nomadic tribes, who followed their herds northward in the summer and southward in the winter, maintaining a seasonal migratory lifestyle.

المِهَنُ وَالْحِرَفُ

اشْتَغَلَ كَثِيرٌ مِنْ سُكَانِ تَاهَرْتَ وَالدَّوْلَةِ الرُّسْتُمِيَّةِ عَلَى حِرَفٍ مُخْتَلِفَةٍ لِتَغْطِيَةِ حَاجَاتِ المُجْتَمَعِ، فَتَنَوَّعَتْ النَّشَاطَاتُ بَيْنَ النَّسِيجِ الَّذِي يُحَوِّلُ الصُّوفَ وَالكَتَّانَ وَالحَرِيرَ إِلَى أَفْرِشَةٍ وَمَلَابِسَ، وَعَمِلَ بَعْضُهُم عَلَى دِبَاغَةِ الجُلُودِ، وَصَنَعَ مِنْهَا السُّرُوجَ وَالأَحْذِيَةَ، إِضَافَةً إِلَى حِرَفٍ أُخْرَى كَانَتْ مُنْتَشِرَةً كَاسْتِخْلَاصِ العَسَلِ وَالنِّجَارَةِ الخَشَبِيَّةِ وَصِنَاعَةِ الفَخَّارِ ؛ كَمَا أَنْشَأَ البَحَارَةُ عَلَى السَّوَاحِلِ الوَرَشَاتِ لِصِنَاعَةِ السُّفْنِ وَتَصْلِيحِهَا ، قَصْدَ الإِبْحَارِ نَحْوَ الأَنْدَلُسِ لِلتِّجَارَةِ وَالصَّيْدِ وَغَيْرِهِمَا.

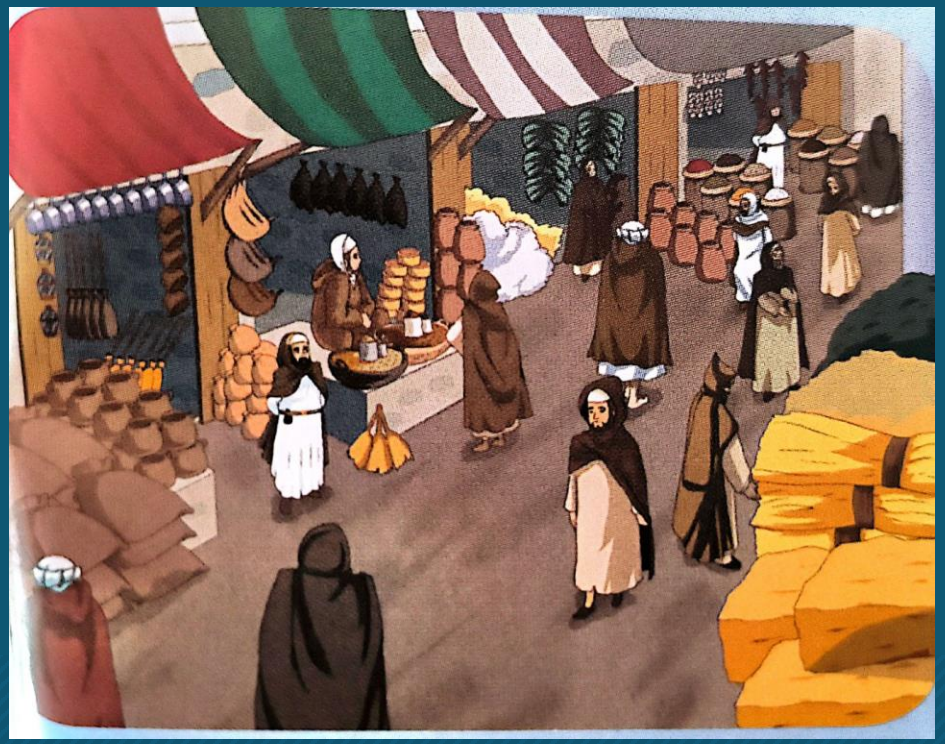

Professions and crafts

Many residents of Tahert and the Rustamid state engaged in various crafts to meet the community's needs. Activities ranged from weaving, which transformed wool, flax, and silk into bedding and clothing, to leather tanning, producing saddles and shoes. Other widespread crafts included honey extraction, woodworking, and pottery making.

Along the coasts, sailors established workshops for building and repairing ships, aiming to set sail towards Al-Andalus for trade, fishing, and other ventures.

النَّشَاطُ التِّجَارِيُّ

تَطَوَّرَت التِّجَارَةُ فِي ذَلِكَ العَهْدِ بَيْنَ مَنَاطِقِ المَغرِبِ القَرِيبَةِ وَالبَعِيدَةِ، وَتَحَسَّنَتْ كَثِيرًا، فَقَدْ سُوقَتْ المَنْتُوجَاتُ الزِّرَاعِيَّةُ وَالحِرَفِيَّةُ فِي كُلِّ مَكَانٍ، وَانْتَشَرَتَ الأَسْوَاقُ وَتَنَوَّعَتْ مَا بَيْنَ اليَوْمِيَّةِ وَالْأُسْبُوعِيَّةِ، كَمَا تَخَصَّصَتْ إِمَّا بِبَيْعِ المَوَاشِي أَوْ بَيْعِ مُنْتَجَاتِ الصَّحْرَاءِ أَوْ المَزْرُوعَاتِ أَوْ الصِنَاعَاتِ. وَقَدْ أَحْضَرَ الرُّسْتُمِيُّونَ الوَرَقَ وَالكَتَّانَ مِنَ الأَنْدَلُسِ، وَظَلَّ التَّبَادُلُ التِّجَارِيُّ نَشِيطًا مَعَ الصَّحْرَاءِ، إِذْ كَانَ يُجْلَبُ مِنْهَا الذَّهَبُ وَالعُطُورُ، وَكَانَتْ هَذِهِ التِّجَارَةُ سَبَبًا فِي إِسْلَامِ مَمْلَكَةِ مَالِي عَلَى يَدِ أَحَدِ التُّجَّارِ ، عِنْدَمَا أَسْلَمَ مَلِكُهُمْ عَلَى يَدَيْهِ؛ بَيْنَمَا حُمِلَتْ مِنَ البِلادِ الرُّسْتُمِيَّةِ نَوَاتِجُ الْأَرْضِ وَالْأَنْعَامِ، وَكَانَ عَدَدُ جِمَالِ القَوَافِلِ كَبِيرًا جِدًّا، حَتَّى أَنَّ ابْنَ حَوْقَلَ قَالَ: لَا تُدَانِهَا فِي الكَثْرَةِ إِبِلُ العَرَبِ.

Commercial activity

Trade flourished during this era, connecting both nearby and distant regions of the Maghreb and significantly improving in scale and efficiency. Agricultural and artisanal products were marketed everywhere, with markets becoming more widespread and varied, ranging from daily to weekly. These markets specialized in specific goods, such as livestock, desert products, crops, or handcrafted items.

The Rustamids imported paper and flax from Al-Andalus and maintained active trade with the Sahara, bringing in gold and perfumes. This trade even played a role in the spread of Islam, as the Kingdom of Mali converted to Islam through a trader who guided their king to the faith.

In return, the Rustamid territories exported agricultural produce and livestock. The size of the trade caravans was remarkable, with so many camels that Ibn Hawqal noted their numbers surpassed even those of the Arab tribes.

الإشكالية:

اختبأ أئمة الإباضية فرارًا من فاطمة، وسقطت الدولة الرستمية بعد حوالي 136 سنة من النضال والاستقرار في المغرب .ولم يكلف العبيديون جهدًا كبيرًا للدخول فاتحين.

ما هي العوامل التي مهدت لصنع الدولة الرستمية؟

حَدَثَتْ موقعة مَانُو سَنَةَ283 هـ، وَقَدْ أَضْعَفَتْ الدَّوْلَةَ الرُّسْتُمِيَّةَ، لِأَنَّ قُوَّتها العَسْكَرِيَّةَ وَالدِّفَاعِيَّةَ كَانَتْ مُسْتَمَدَّةً مِنْ نَفُوسَةَ ، فَقَدْ قُتِلَ فِي المَعْرَكَةِ الكَثِيرُ وَمِنْهُمْ 400 عَالِمٍ ؛ وَسَبَبُ المَعْرَكَةِ أَنَّ الجيش الأَغْلَبِيَّ خرج يُرِيدُ الاشْتِبَاكَ مَعَ ابْنِ طُولُونَ فِي مِصْرَ فَاعْتَرَضَتْهُ قُوَّةٌ مُجْتَمِعَةٌ مِنْ نَفُوسَةَ وَقَبَائِلَ أُخْرَى لِتَمْنَعَهُ من المُرُورِ عَبْرَ أَرَاضِيهَا ، فَوَقَعَتْ مَعْرَكَةٌ كَبِيرَةٌ خَسِرَتْهَا نَفُوسَةَ ، وَلَمْ تُطِعْ وَلَاتَهَا عِنْدَمَا نَصَحُوهُمْ بِعَدَمِ إعتراضها، خَاصَّةً وَأَنَّ القَبَائِلَ فِي تَاهَرْتَ لَمْ تَكُنْ عَلَى وِفَاقٍ وَقَدْ صَعُبَ اجْتِمَاعُهَا.

The Battle of Mano :

The Manu Battle took place in the year 283 AH, significantly weakening the Rustamid state because its military and defensive strength was derived from Nafusa. Many people were killed in the battle, including 400 scholars.

The cause of the battle was that the Aghlabid army set out to engage in combat with Ibn Tulun's forces in Egypt, but a combined force from Nafusa and other tribes intercepted them to prevent their passage through their lands. A major battle ensued, in which Nafusa suffered defeat.

Despite the advice of their rulers not to engage the Aghlabids, they refused to comply. This was especially problematic because the tribes in Tahert were not united, making it difficult to bring them together.

مقتل الإمام أبي حاتم :

اسْتَطَاعَ أَبُو حَاتِمٍ يُوسُفَ أَنْ يَقْضِيَ عَلَى كَثِيرٍ مِنَ الفَسَادِ الَّذِي أَصَابَ البِلادَ وَالدَّوْلَةَ فِي عَهْدِهِ، إِلَّا أَنَّهُ لَمْ يُنْهِ فَسَادَ بَعْضِ أَفْرَادِ أُسْرَتِهِ وَأَطْمَاعِهِمْ ، حَيْثُ نَافَسَهُ عَمُّهُ يَعْقُوبُ بْنُ أَفْلَحَ عَلَى السُّلْطَةَ، وَحَكَمَ إِلَى جَانِبِهِ أَرْبَعَ سنواتٍ، وَلَمْ يَكَدْ يَنْتَهى هَذَا النِّزَاعُ حَتَّى عَادَاهُ أَخُوهُ اليَقْظَانُ مِنْ جِهَةٍ أُخْرَى، وَانْتَهى بِقَتْلِ أَبْنَاءِ اليَقْطَانِ بْنِ أَبِي اليَقْظَانِ لِعَمِّهِمْ الْإِمَامِ أَبِي حَاتِمٍ، وَتَوَلَّى اليَقْظَانُ الحُكْمَ سَنَةَ294 هـ فَقَاطَعَهُ النَّاسُ، وَاعْتَبَرُوا حُكْمَهُ غَصْبًا وَلَمْ يَنْصُرُوهُ وَلَمْ يَقِفُوا إِلَى جَانِبِهِ وَقَضَى عَامَيْنِ فِي خَوْفٍ وَقَلَقٍ.

The Assassination of Imam Abu Hatim :

Abu Hatim Yusuf was able to eliminate much of the corruption that had afflicted the country and the state during his rule. However, he failed to put an end to the greed and corruption of some members of his own family. His uncle, Ya'qub bin Aflah, competed with him for power and ruled alongside him for four years.

This conflict had barely ended when his own brother, Al-Yaqzan, turned against him from another front. Eventually, the sons of Al-Yaqtan bin Abi Al-Yaqzan killed their uncle, Imam Abu Hatim, and Al-Yaqzan took over the rule in 294 AH. However, the people rejected him, viewed his rule as illegitimate, and refused to support or stand by him. As a result, he spent two years in fear and anxiety.

العبيديون في تاهرت :

طَلَبَتْ دَوْسَرُ ابْنَةُ الإِمَامِ المَقْتُولِ مِنْ أَبِي عَبْدِ اللَّهِ الشيعي، الَّذِي خَرَجَ يَدْعُو النَّاسَ إِلَى بَيْعَةِ إِمَامَهِ عُبَيْدِ اللهِ ، وَقَدْ جَمَعَ عِدَّةَ قَبَائِلَ تَبْحَثُ عَنِ الرِّئَاسَةِ، وَأَلَحَّتْ عَلَيْهِ أَنْ يَأْتِيَ بَجَيْشِهِ إِلَى تَاهَرْتَ وَيَثْأَرَ لِأَبِهَا، فَاسْتَغَلَّ هُوَ وَجَيْشُهُ فُرْصَةَ الصِّرَاعِ وَتُشَتُّتِ قَبَائِلِ المَنْطِقَةِ وَدَخَلُوا المَدِينَةَ دُونَ مُقَاوَمَةٍ ، وَقَتَلَ العَائِلَةَ الرُّسْتُمِيَّةَ إِلَّا مَنْ فَرَّ مِنْهُمْ، وَأَحْرَقُوا مَكْتَبَةَ المَعْصُومَةِ، وَسَرَقُوا المَدِينَةَ وَنَهَبُوهَا، وَسَقَطَت بِذَلِكَ الدَّوْلَةُ الرُّسْتُمِيَّةُ.

فَرَّ مَنْ فَرَّ مِنْ عَائِلَةِ الرُّسْتُمِيِّينَ إِلَى وَارِجْلانَ وَتَخَفَّوا فيهَا، وَبَقِيَتْ قَبَائِلُ أَهْلِ الإِسْتِقَامَةِ فِي المَغْرِبِ الْأَوْسَطِ وَإِفْرِيقِيَّةَ مُتَمَسِّكَةً بِعُلَمَائِهَا وَفُقَهَاءِهَا كَاتِمَةً أَمْرَهَا، بينَمَا وَاصَلَ الجيش العُبَيْدِيُّ سَعْيَهُ لِإِسْقَاطِ دُوَلِ المَغْرِبِ وَأَئِمَّتِهَا.

The Fatimids in Tahert :

Dawsar, the daughter of the slain imam, pleaded with Abu Abd Allah Al-Shi'i, who was calling people to pledge allegiance to his imam, Ubayd Allah. He had gathered several tribes seeking leadership, and Dawsar insisted that he bring his army to Tahert and avenge her father.

Seeing an opportunity in the ongoing conflict and the division among the region's tribes, he and his army entered the city without resistance. They massacred the Rustamid family, except for those who managed to escape, burned the Al-Ma’souma Library, looted the city, and plundered its wealth. This led to the fall of the Rustamid state.

Some members of the Rustamid family fled to Warjlan, where they remained in hiding. Meanwhile, the tribes of Ahl Al-Istiqama in the Central Maghreb and Ifriqiya held on to their scholars and jurists, keeping their faith secret. At the same time, the Ubaydi army continued its campaign to overthrow the states and imams of the Maghreb.

Changes in the Maghreb :

The people of the Maghreb, particularly in central Maghreb, suffered greatly under the rule of the Ubayyid dynasty. Their rulers did not wish to share power, so they gradually expanded their control, waging war against the tribes. They were oppressive, seizing people's wealth and livelihoods, which caused the population to resent them. Fear spread, and productivity declined.

It was a time described by Abu Zakariya Fasîl in the 4th century Hijri as follows:

"When the land suffers famine, paradise can be earned with a handful of food. And when Islam suffers famine, paradise can be earned by speaking a word of truth. The famine of Islam is harsher than the famine of food, and in our time, we have experienced both."

ثورة أبي يزيد :

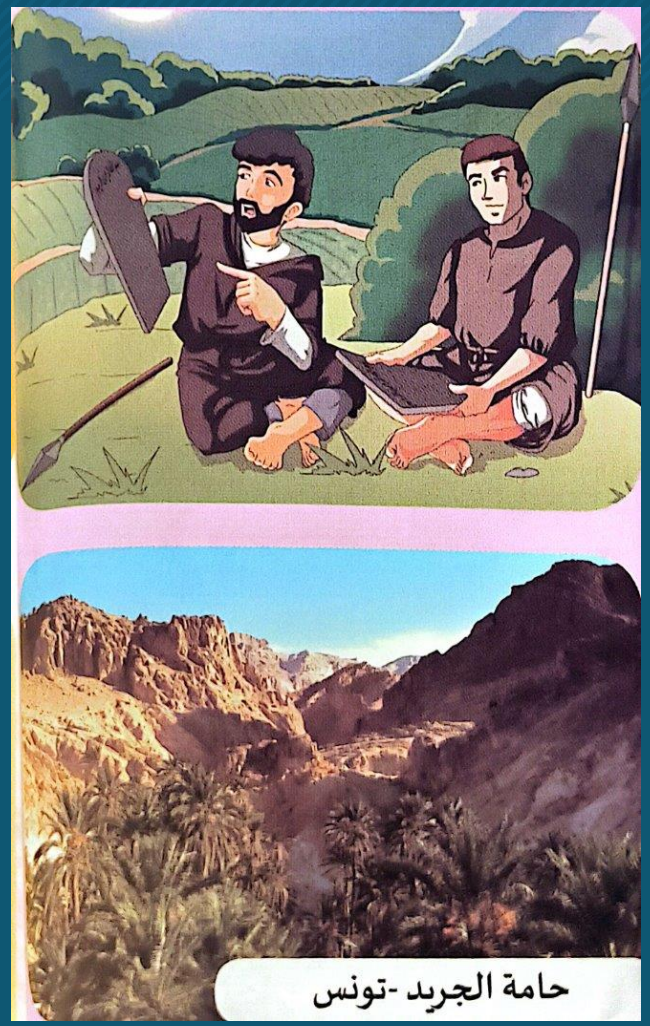

قادَ أَكْبَرَ ثَوْرَةٍ ضِدَّ العُبَيْدِيِّينَ أَبُو يَزِيدٍ مَخْلَدُ بْنُ كَيْدَادَ النُّكَارِيُّ، بَعْدَ أَنْ بَلَغَ الفَقْرُ وَالْجُوعُ بِالسُّكَانِ مَبْلَغًا كَبِيرًا، فَانْطَلَقَ عَلَى حِمَارِهِ مِنْ تُوزَرَ سَنَةَ 331هـ، وَخَرَجَ مَعَه الآلافُ ، وَدَخَلَ مُدُنَ الْأَوْرَاسِ وَغَرْبَ إِفْرِيقِيَّةَ، وَأَسْقَطَ قَبِيلَةَ كُتَامَةَ، وَتَقَدَّمَ نَحْوَ الْمَهْدِيَّةِ عَاصِمَةِ العُبَيْدِيِّينَ وَحَاصَرَهَا أَيَّامًا، حَتَّى كَادَ يُسْقِطُ دَوْلَتَهُمْ؛ لَوْلاَ أَنَّ جَمْعًا مِنْ أَصْحَابِهِ كَانُوا سَيِّئِي السَّيرَةِ، وَقَدْ خَرَجُوا مَعَهُ ثَأْرًا مِنْ أَجْلِ النَّهْبِ وَعَاثُوا فِي الْمُدُنِ فَسَادًا وَلَمْ يَعِبْ عَلَيْهِمْ ذَلِكَ، فَفَارَقَتْهُ الْقَبَائِلُ الَّتِي كَانَتْ مَعَهُ ، وَانْهَزَمَ سَنَةَ 334هـ، وَتَبِعَهُ الجَيْْش لِقِتَالِ مَنْ وَقَفَ مَعَهُ خَاصَّةً مِنْ أَهْلِ الدَّعْوَةِ الَّذِينَ تَحَصَّنُوا فِي البَوَادِي وَالجِبَالِ المَنِيعَةِ.

قصر القائم بن عبيد الله المهدية - تونس

Abu Yazid's revolution :

The largest revolution against the Ubayyid dynasty was led by Abu Yazid Makhlad ibn Kaydad al-Nukkari, after poverty and hunger had greatly afflicted the people. Riding his donkey, he set out from Tozeur in 331 AH, gathering thousands to his cause. He entered the cities of the Aurès and western Ifriqiya, overthrowing the Kutama tribe, and advanced toward Mahdia, the Ubayyid capital, laying siege to it for several days. He nearly toppled their state if not for a group of his followers who were of bad conduct, having joined him out of a desire for looting and causing corruption in the cities. Abu Yazid did not reprimand them, which led to the tribes supporting him to abandon him. He was defeated in 334 AH, and the army pursued those who stood with him, particularly the supporters of his call who had taken refuge in remote deserts and fortified mountains.

مَقْتَلُ الشيخ أبي القاسم الحامي :

مِنْ بَيْنِ عُدْوَانِ العُبَيْدِيِّينَ قَتْلُ الشَّيْخِ أَبِي القَاسِمِ يَزِيدِ بنِ مَخْلَدٍ سَنَةَ 357هـ، وَهُوَ مِنْ أَجَل عُلَمَاءِ أَهْلِ الدَّعْوَةِ بِالحَامَّةِ .فَعَزَمَ الشَّيْخَانِ أَبُو خَزْرٍ يَغْلا بْنُ زُلْتَافٍ وَأَبُو نُوحٍ سَعِيدُ بْنُ زَنْغِيلَ رَحِمَهُمُ اللَّهُ عَلَى إِلْزَامِ العُبَيْدِيِّينَ حَدَّهُمْ، وَلَكِنَّ عُدَّتَهُمْ كَانَتْ قَلِيلَةً، فَأَرْسَلُوا إِلَى الجِهَاتِ يَسْتَنْفِرُونَ، فَنَصَحَهُمْ مَشَايِخُ آخَرُونَ بِعَدَمِ الثَّأْرِ وَالثَّوْرَةِ دُونَ القُوَّةِ اللاَّزِمَةِ، وَلَكِنَّهُمْ عَزَمُوا فَسَارُوا إِلَى بَغَايْ وَلَمْ يَنْتَظِرُوا العَوْنَ .وَقَعَتْ مَعْرَكَةٌ كَبِيرَةٌ سَنَةَ 358هـ، وَخَسِرَ أَهْلُ الدَّعْوَةِ جَمْعًا كَبِيرًا مِنْ طَلَبَتِهِمْ.

The killing of Sheikh Abu al-Qasim al-Hami :

Among the aggressions of the Ubayyid dynasty was the killing of Sheikh Abu al-Qasim Yazid ibn Makhlad in 357 AH, one of the most esteemed scholars of the Da'wa in al-Hamma. This act prompted the two sheikhs, Abu Khazar Yaghla ibn Zultaf and Abu Nuh Sa'id ibn Zangil, may Allah have mercy on them, to decide to confront the Ubayyids and put an end to their oppression. However, their resources were limited, so they sent out calls for support to various regions. Other scholars advised them against seeking revenge and rebellion without sufficient strength, but they were determined and marched to Baghay without waiting for reinforcements.

A great battle took place in 358 AH, where the followers of the Da'wa suffered significant losses, losing a large number of their students.

The two sheikhs and the end of the conflict :

The Shia emir sent forces to search for the two sheikhs, Abu Nuh and Abu Khazar, after their actions had shaken his authority. They managed to capture Abu Nuh, but the emir respected him and brought him close, fearing his strong intellect and eloquence. The emir also sought the leader of the resistance, Abu Khazar. Abu Nuh negotiated safety for Abu Khazar, and the emir granted safety across the entire region. Abu Khazar surrendered himself to prevent further bloodshed. Both sheikhs remained with the emir, who treated them well and engaged with them in discussions in his court.

When the Ubayyids decided to move to Egypt in 361 AH, they entrusted the governance of the Maghreb to the Zirid dynasty to act on their behalf. They also planned to take the two sheikhs, Abu Khazar and Abu Nuh, with them. Abu Khazar accompanied the Ubayyids to Egypt to ensure the safety of the followers of the Da'wa. Meanwhile, Abu Nuh moved to Warjlan, dedicating himself to reviving the scholarly circles that had begun to dwindle and confronting the widespread heresies of the time.

Among the regions that developed during the Rustamid era in Central Maghreb were Ouargla and Sedrata. They became a safe haven to which the remaining members of the Rustamid family moved after their departure from Tahert. Their prominence rose when conditions in the north deteriorated, prompting people from the Maghreb to head there. What distinguished the region at that time?

Ouargla and Sedrata, enjoyed great fame that reached far and wide, as they were among the most important trade centers and served as a station for caravans coming from the sea and from the north of the Central Maghreb, heading toward the western lands of the Sudan. Due to the location of these two cities along the trade route, migration to them increased, which led to their expansion. Houses multiplied and water wells were dug. Ouargla and Sedrata witnessed notable agricultural activity; many wells were dug, especially in Sedrata, and irrigation canals extended from there to Ouargla over a distance of twelve kilometers, and from there to the farms and orchards that stretched along the outskirts of the city."

Scientific activity in Wargelan :

Just as knowledge once flowed to Tahert during its golden age, it later turned toward Ouargla and Wadi Souf, as they lay along the route connecting Nafusa to the capital of the state. It was a well-traveled path frequented by scholars and the general public. Moreover, the fall of the Rustamid state and the tyranny of rulers in the Tell region prompted the scholars and jurists of the Ibadi movement to relocate there, leading to a flourishing of knowledge in these areas. Among the scholars of Ouargla were Abu Salih Jinnun, Abu al-Rabi‘ Sulayman ibn Zarqun, Abu Zakariya Yahya (author of Siyar al-A’immah), Shaykh Abu ‘Ammar Abd al-Kafi (author of Siyar al-Halqa), Abu al-‘Abbas (author of al-Qisma), and the scholar Abu Ya‘qub al-Warjilani (author of al-Dalil wa al-Burhan)

Spreading the religion and bringing benefits :

Trade contributed to the conversion of the people of Sudan to Islam. Traders brought with them colors and blessings to those lands, and they also carried the message of Islam. These merchants were known for their good character, which left a positive impression on the local people. Often, a number of scholars and preachers would accompany the trade caravans—they were also ambassadors of Islam. Through the efforts of these righteous individuals, both individuals and entire kingdoms, such as the Kingdom of Mali, embraced Islam.

خَرَابُ سَدْرَاتَه :

The destruction of Sedrata :

This trade, which brought great profits to Ouargla and Sedrata, also attracted armies—not to protect them or to assist them in spreading Islam, but to destroy them and their civilization, and to seize control of trade routes and sources of gold. The region was attacked by Yahya ibn Ishaq al-Mayurqi, who was enticed by the splendor of Sedrata—its urban development, its ornaments, and its display of wealth—which drew the attention of the greedy. As a result, it was destroyed and its wealth was looted in the year 626 AH (1228 CE). Meanwhile, Ouargla remained in its simplicity, protected by its scholars, and was spared from destruction.

The Nafusa Mountain was a strong support with its men and scholars for the Imamate of Abu al-Khattab and the Rustamid state after him, and it was influenced by their condition, just as was the case in the island of Djerba and the land of Jarid. How did the people of the da'wah (mission) proceed in those regions after the Rustamids?

Nafoussa mountain position:

The Nafusa Mountain is a mountain range located in the northwestern region of Libya, and Nafusa is an Amazigh tribe that embraced Islam early on. They adopted the path of Ahl al-Istiqamah (the people of uprightness) as their way of learning the Shari'ah and engaging in independent legal reasoning (ijtihad) on various issues, adhering to their views. Thus, the people of Nafusa became among the first supporters of the da'wah (mission), a school for its scholars and shaykhs in the Maghreb lands, and a strong support for the Rustamid Imamate in Tahert.

The event of Manu in the year 283 AH greatly harmed the Nafusa Mountain and exhausted its people, so they were unable to defend the Rustamid state when it fell. Nevertheless, they participated alongside Imam Abu Khazr Yaghla ibn Zultaf and Abu Nuh Sa'id al-Hami in the uprising against the Ubaydids in the year 358 AH, but it was not destined to succeed. As a result, the people of the da'wah entered a phase of secrecy and focused on reforming their society and educating the coming generations.

Scholars reviving the mountain :

Among the trials of the Battle of Manu in the year 283 AH was the death of thousands from Nafusa, including more than four hundred scholars and jurists, to the extent that there was no one left to teach the fundamentals of the religion to the coming generations.

The two shaykhs whom Allah granted long lives — Abu al-Qasim Sadrat al-Bu‘turi and ‘Abd Allah ibn al-Khayr (may Allah have mercy on them) — were the preservers of the religion and the school of thought in the mountain through their two long-standing study circles, until knowledge flourished again in the mountain. Great shaykhs emerged, such as Sulayman ibn Matous (3rd century AH), the teacher of Shaykh Abu Miswar Yasja (3rd century AH), the reviver of knowledge in Djerba, and Abu Zakariya ibn al-Khayr al-Jannawni, author of Al-Wad‘ (may Allah have mercy on them all).

The study circles were dedicated to teaching, remembrance (dhikr), and exhortations (admonitions), and women would sit behind a hijab to listen to the lessons or participate in the prayer.

El Jreed en Djerba island :

Djerba is an island located in the southeast of Tunisia, and it had maintained loyalty to the Rustamids since the time of the second Imam, ʻAbd al-Wahhab, in the year 171 AH.

As for Jarid, it is the southern region of Tunisia, connecting Wadi Souf in the Central Maghreb to the Nafusa Mountain in Tripolitania (western Libya) through Mount Dammar and Matmata.

When the people of the da'wah (mission) were defeated by the Ubaydids, they sought refuge on the island of Djerba, while others who were pursued took to the mountains where there was safety, fortification, and stability.

This period was difficult, as communication between regions weakened. Those living in less fortified areas, such as in Jarid and elsewhere, suffered greatly under the pressure of the Zirids (who destroyed Darjin in Qastiliyah in the year 440 AH) and from migrating Bedouin tribes.

Their conditions deteriorated, and the lack of security preoccupied them from anything else, causing them to eventually follow the way of whoever prevailed in their land.

Meanwhile, the villages and countryside of the island of Djerba devoted themselves to maintaining study circles and caring for the students who came to them, to the point that Djerba became known as "the Island of Mosques."

A Center of Learning in the Maghreb :

Abū Miswar Yasja ibn Yujīn — may God bless him — had a great role in the flourishing of knowledge in Djerba and the organization of its affairs.

After returning from the Nafusa Mountains, he devoted himself to teaching on the island: he established schools, collected valuable books, built mosques, and trained prominent scholars such as his son Abū Zakariyā Fasīl and ʻAbd Allāh ibn Mānoj al-Lamaʼī — may God have mercy on them.

As a result, the island became a destination for students.

Among those who passed through it was Shaykh Muḥammad ibn Bikr, the founder of the ḥalqa (study circle) system, who studied under Shaykh Fasīl.

It was also there that one of the great encyclopedic works of jurisprudence, Dīwān al-ʻAzābah, was compiled.

انْعَزَلَتِ القُرَى وَالقَبَائِلُ فِي مَوَاطِنِهَا مُنْذُ نِهَايَةِ الدَّوْلَةِ الرُّسْتُمِيَّةِ ، وَلَمْ تَقُمْ إِمَامَةٌ تَرْعَى مَصَالِحَهَا ، فَاهْتَمْ أَهْلُ الحَلِ وَالعَقْدِ فِي جِهَاتٍ عِدّةٍ مِنْ بِلَادِ المَغْرِبِ بِمَا يَصْلِحُ أَوْضَاعَهُم وَيُنَظِمُ أَحْوَالَهُم .

مَا الحَلُّ الَّذِي دَبَّرَهُ المَشايِخُ دُونَ الإِمَامَةِ؟

آخِرُ إِمَامَةٍ قَبْلَ تَنْظِيمِ الحَلَقَةِ :

The last imamate before the organization of the halqa:

During the 4th century, conditions in the Maghreb were dire, prompting people to focus on security and what could improve their circumstances. They would turn to religious leaders to appoint an imam. However, the scholars—such as Imams Abu al-Qasim al-Hami and Abu Khazr al-Wisyani—believed it was wise to leave governance to those who pursued it and competed for it. This mindset became firmly rooted after the Battle of Baghay in the year 258 AH, which marked the end of Abu Khazr's defensive leadership.

From then on, attention shifted toward finding a way to ensure the community's welfare and continuity of moral values without a figure of authority or political power. Sheikh Abu Miswar and others—may God have mercy on them—were deeply committed to the community, striving to strengthen its education and promote cooperation and brotherhood. They envisioned a new path that would uplift society and protect it from strife and corruption. They ultimately saw education and upbringing as the means to convey the trust of religion, as this is the true goal of a believer.

مَنْهَجُ التَّعْلِيمِ وَالتَّأْلِيفِ :

نَهَضَ الشَّيْخُ أَبُو مِسوَرَ فِي جِرْبَةَ بِالعِلْمِ وَالمَوَاعِظِ ، وَحَثَّ النَّاسَ عَلَى مُرَاجَعَةِ مُعَامَلَاتِهِمْ وَانْتِهَاجِ طَرِيقِ الاستقامةِ، وَحَفَزَ الطَّلَبَةَ عَلَى الانْتِسَابِ إِلَى الحَلَقَاتِ العِلْمِيَّة، وَبَنَى مَدْرَسَةً لِإِيوَاءِ الطَّلَبَةِ وَمَسْجِدًا فِي بَنِي يَرَاسِنَ، وَتُوُفِّيَ عَلَى هَذَا العَمَلِ، وَأَتَمَّ ابْنُهُ الشَّيْخُ أَبُو زَكَرِياءَ فَصِيلُ مَسِيرَتَهُ وَوَفَدَ إِلَيْهِ الطَّلَبَةُ مِنْ كُلِّ الجِهَاتِ، كَمَا مَرَّ الشَّيْخُ أَبُو عَبْدِ اللهِ مُحَمَّدٌ بْنُ بِكْرٍ مُتَعَلِّمًا عِنْدَهُ .صَرَفَ الشَّيْخُ أَبُو زَكَرِيَاءَ كَامِلَ جُهْدِهِ إِلَى الاعْتِنَاءِ بِالطَّلَبَةِ الوَافِدِينَ إِلَى جِرْبَةَ، وَرَغَبَهُمْ فِي البَقَاءِ وَدَعْوَةِ رِفَاقِهِمْ، فَكَانَ يَضْمَنُ لَهُمْ كُلَّ مَصَارِيفِهِمْ وَيَزِيدُ عَلَى ذَلِكَ، وَرَأَى أَنَّ التَّوْعِيَةَ هِي أَسَاسُ الوِقَايَةِ مِنْ خَطَرِ ضَيَاعِ الدِّينِ، وَظَلَّ يَبْحَثُ عَنْ طَرِيقَةٍ تُوَسِعُ دَائِرَةَ التَعْلِيمِ وَتَبْلِيغِ أَمَانَةِ الدِّينِ فِي بِلَادِ المَغْرِبِ، خَاصَّةً فِي المَنَاطِقِ الَّتِي مَسَّهَا الضُّرُّ بَيْنَ جَبَلِ دَمَّرْ وَالجَرِيدِ.

The Method of Teaching and Authorship :

Sheikh Abu Miswar undertook a mission of knowledge and preaching in Djerba, urging people to reexamine their dealings and adopt the path of righteousness. He encouraged students to join scholarly ḥalaqāt (study circles), and he built a school to house students and a mosque in Bani Yarasn. He passed away while engaged in this work.

His son, Sheikh Abu Zakariyya Fasil, continued his path, and students came to him from all regions. Among them was Sheikh Abu ʿAbd Allah Muhammad ibn Bakr, who studied under him. Sheikh Abu Zakariyya devoted all his efforts to supporting students coming to Djerba, encouraging them to stay and invite their companions. He guaranteed all their expenses—and even provided more than that.

He believed that raising awareness was the key to protecting the religion from being lost, and he continuously searched for a method to expand the scope of education and transmit the trust of religion throughout the Maghreb, especially in regions afflicted by hardship between Mount Dammar and al-Jarid.

رِحْلَةُ البَحْثِ عَنْ تَنْظِيمِ العَلَقَاتِ :

وَجَّهَ الشَّيْخُ أَبُو زَكَرِيَاءَ فَصِيلُ وَلَدَيْهِ وَابْنَ أَخِيهِ وَمَجْمُوعَةً أُخْرَى مِن طَلَبَةِ جَربةَ لِلْبَحْثِ عَنِ الشَّيْخِ أَبِي عَبْدِ اللَّهِ مُحَمَّدِ بْنِ بَكْرِ الفُرْسُطَائِي لِيُلَازِمُوهُ وَيُرَافِقُوهُ وَيَتَعَلَّمُوا مِنْهُ ، وَيَطْلُبُوا مِنْهُ أَنْ يُجِدَّ فِي تَنْظِيمِ حِلَقِ العِلْمِ وَتَقْوِيَةِ سُلْطَانِهَا، لِئَلَّا تَضِيعَ مُجْتَمَعَاتُ أَهْلِ الدَّعْوَةِ بِالجَهْلِ بَعْدَ أَنْ ضَاعَ سُلْطَانُ الإِمَامَةِ .فَلَمَّا عَثَرُوا عَلَى الشيخ فِي نَوَاحِي تِقْيُوسَ أَعْلَمُوهُ بِطَلَبِ شَيْخِهِ، فَرَفَضَ وَلَمْ يُجِبْ أَوَّلَ الْأَمْرِ إِلَّا بَعْدَ إِلْحَاحٍ عَلَى شَرْطِ أَنْ يُمْهِلُوهُ أَرْبَعَةَ أَشْهُرٍ يَخْتَلِي فِيهَا وَيَسْتَخِيرُ اللهَ، وَيَسْتَجْمِعَ تَجَارُبَ مَشَايِخِهِ . بَعْدَ انْقِضَاءِ المُدَّةِ وَضَعَ الشَّيْخُ أَبُو عَبْدِ اللَّهِ نِظَامَ التَّفَرُّ لِحَلَقَاتِ العِلْمِ فِي تِقْيُوسَ بِالحَامَّةِ الْتونُسِيَّةِ، وَحَدَدَ شُرُوطًا للالْتِحَاقِ بِهَا .

The Journey in Search of Organizing the Study Circles :

Sheikh Abu Zakariyya Fasil sent his two sons, his nephew, and a group of students from Djerba to search for Sheikh Abu ʿAbd Allah Muhammad ibn Bakr al-Farsṭāʾī so that they could accompany him, learn from him, and ask him to take the lead in organizing the ḥalaqāt al-ʿilm (study circles) and strengthening their influence—so that the communities of the daʿwa (mission) would not fall into ignorance after the loss of the imamate's authority.

When they found the sheikh in the region of Tikyousa, they informed him of his teacher's request. At first, he refused and did not agree, except after repeated insistence and on the condition that they give him four months to retreat, seek guidance from God (istikhārah), and gather the experiences of his own teachers.

After that period passed, Sheikh Abu ʿAbd Allah established the system of mobile study circles (tafarro) in Tikyousa, near al-Ḥāmma al-Nūnusiyya, setting conditions for joining them. Then, he inaugurated the first mobile circle.

This occurred in a cave in Tīn Isli, in the Wādī Rīgh, in the year 409 AH (1018 CE). He traveled between Jabal Nafūsa and Djerba in the east, and Wārjilān in the west. Thanks to his missionary efforts, the people of Mzab adopted the path of daʿwa and uprightness, and the notables of Mzab joined the first circle under his leadership, and the movement continued after his death.
